Cambodia large mobile energy storage vehicle custom made

Overview

Where are BYD electric cars made?

BYD has broken ground on a $32 million passenger electric vehicle plant in Cambodia, marking its latest move to localize production as part of a broader global expansion that has seen the Chinese automaker become a top-selling EV brand in markets from Brazil to the UK.

Where will BYD EVs be made?

In Latin America, BYD announced in July 2023 plans to build three factories in Brazil, including one for passenger EVs with a 150,000-unit annual capacity. The launch, originally planned second half of 2024, has been delayed until. The company also began operations at its Uzbekistan plant in June 2024.

When did BYD start manufacturing in Central Asia?

The company also began operations at its Uzbekistan plant in June 2024. With an initial output of 50,000 units a year, it marks BYD's first manufacturing footprint in Central Asia. Contact reporter Denise Jia (huijuanjia@caixin.com)
